November 2018

Dear Students, Parents and Guardians,

Human Trafficking, Public Religion and Political Standards

Every year the Ethics Department runs a Year 12 Ethics Conference. This year the Conference is on Wednesday 14th November 2018.

The students get the opportunity to discuss important ethical issues. This year they will be exploring Human Trafficking and the impact it has on the lives of those it affects. This is an important issue as approximately 20.9 million people live as victims of human trafficking; they are slaves. As well as this we will be looking at whether or not religion should be shown publically and discussing the standards by which politicians are expected to abide.

Human Trafficking especially is a difficult issue to study and one which will challenge students. Should you prefer your child not to attend please contact me on the school telephone number below or my email address: smith.s@aylesford-elearning.net. This Conference is provided to allow all Year 12 students to fulfil their Religious Education requirement at Key Stage 5.

I hope that you will be able to use the day to explore a moral issue and to further your understanding of the complexities of modern day slavery.

Yours faithfully

Miss Smith
