Dear Parents and Carers

Following the Prime Ministers announcement earlier tonight, all schools in England will now be closed for students with the exception of those regarded as vulnerable, or for children whose parents and carers are classed as key workers by the government.

As a result, it is very important that any key workers who have not already done so, and who need their child to attend school, complete the appropriate primary or secondary online forms that can be found on our school website.

Work for Secondary students will now be set on Show My Homework and where applicable via Zoom (the details of any Zoom lessons will be displayed on Show My Homework). Students will be permitted into such meetings by teachers whereby previous authorisation has been granted for students to participate in Zoom on-line learning by the parents or carer. However, given the speed at which the new arrangements have been introduced it may take a couples of days before everything is in place.

As always, I will be touch with you when I have further news and in in particular when we have a clearer picture of how this year's public examinations will be adapted to take account of these further lockdown measures.

Yours faithfully

Mr Tim Hodgson
